FOCUS ON FINANCIAL SERVICES AND CORPORATE RECOVERY

Announcing a major expansion in our financial services area

With the arrival of David Chaiton and Jeffrey Alpert, Torkin Manes is extremely pleased to announce an exciting expansion of its reach into the financial services sector with the formation of its Financial Services and Corporate Recovery Group.

This move represents a bold step forward for the firm – one that significantly deepens our commitment to the financial institutions and insolvency practitioners who we have worked with over the years.

Between them, David and Jeffrey have more than 50 years of experience in advising clients in the financial services area. Members of our group look forward to working with them as we dedicate ourselves to serving the financial services and corporate recovery marketplace.

We are very excited about this new development, and we are positive that our decision to introduce these major enhancements will inspire novel, imaginative solutions and re-define success in lending and insolvency cases to support your operations as never before.

For many years we have been honoured to represent banks, credit unions, private lenders and the entire gamut of financial services clientele, including trustees, receivers and CCAA monitors, and we look forward with vigorous enthusiasm to increasing the multiples – as our clients would say – as we raise the bar for the profession and ensuring that our relationship continues to be a mutually beneficial and rewarding one for all of us. Go ahead – put our feet to the fire! We're a phone call away. Each of us considers excellence in service as the order of the day.

Jeffrey Alpert

Jeffrey acts for banks and other lenders in commercial loan transactions secured by real estate and personal property. He has expertise in asset-based lending, including receivables purchase financing. Jeffrey's practice also includes corporate and business law.

David Chaiton

David brings to the firm a distinguished history of professional and community service. He is widely recognized as an expert in equipment financing, leasing, asset-based lending, corporate finance and banking matters and has been involved in complex bankruptcy and receivership engagements, and represents banks, insurance companies, leasing companies and other purveyors of financial services.
