MANAGING CYBERSECURITY RISK 2015

Cybersecurity has become an ubiquitous business risk, extending beyond IT and security professionals to the C-suite and the boardroom. In the last year, virtually no industry sector anywhere has been immune from the threat. Experts say it’s a trend that will likely continue, but studies indicate that cybersecurity spending is actually decreasing. It’s a dangerous conundrum. How does your company escape it? Listen to our legal and technical experts talk about key emerging cybersecurity threats and how to manage them. Our experts will offer you practical guidance on how to protect against cybersecurity concerns in the Cloud; deal with inevitable data breaches and how to contract smartly to protect yourselves against security losses. Our speakers will offer insight and solutions for corporate directors and officers that need to take proactive steps to deal with these urgent issues before they happen. We will also cover off the emerging opportunities offered by cyberliability insurance and how you can best leverage your own IT resources to best protect your enterprise and make the most of your IT spend. This course is a must for CEOs, CIOs, Risk Managers, Directors, Officers, In-house and External Counsel and anyone else that wants to learn how to mitigate the myriad complexities of cybersecurity risks and management that organizations face today.
